

Health Contract, privacy and consent

MTHFR Support Australia's Commitment to you

Your personal information

- Your personal information will be kept private and secure. The approach used is consistent with the provisions of Federal and State Privacy legislation
- Your records: your personal information will be:
 - Accurate, comprehensive, well organised and legible
 - Be kept up to date
 - Will have enough information to allow another practitioner to care for you
 - Will not contain offensive or irrelevant comments about you
 - Will contain a summary of your care
- Can be used to remind you, with your permissions to return for follow-up, check-ups and reviews Only information relevant to your care will be collected. If you are uncertain as to why information is being requested, please ask. If you have any concerns regarding the privacy or accuracy of your information held by the clinic, discuss these with your practitioner.

Providing information to other healthcare professionals

Your right to decide how your personal health information is used or disclosed e.g. to other healthcare professionals, is respected. In all but exceptional circumstances, personal information that identifies you will only be sent to other people with your consent. Gaining your consent is the guiding principle.

Providing your information to others

Your information will not be disclosed to a third party unless:

- you have consented to the disclosure; or
- this disclosure is necessary because you are at risk of harm without treatment and you are unable to give consent, i.e. you are suicidal or considering harming others
- your practitioner is legally obliged to disclose the information i.e. subpoena or court order

In any or the above cases, only the information which is necessary to achieve the objective will be provided.

Access to your information

You have access to the information contained in your records. You may ask about any aspect of your health care including information in your record. Information in your records can be provided to you by way of accurate and up-to-date summary of care if you are moving away, or transferring to a new practitioner. Depending what is involved, you may be asked to contribute to the cost of providing the information.
